YAWN works as a screensaver, it makes a windmill spin when you press the CTRL key on your keyboard while the computer is on. The windmill spins around and you can set the speed and direction. YAWN can be set to do "Headtracking" i.e., the screensaver will move smoothly around the desktop whenever the user's head moves. YAWN can also be configured to make the windmill spin 360 degrees, in which case it will make the windmill spin smoothly around you. This was designed for when you are trying to get some work done while laying in bed. One will only notice the windmill when one happens to look up at it. YAWN uses the built in microphone to capture the wind and turn it into sound. The sound can be redirected to a file, recorded into the computer or streamed over the internet. The sound includes wind speed, wind direction, time and location of capture, as well as the user's activity. No internet connection or software is needed when YAWN captures sound, it uses a built in microphone located on the computer's motherboard. The yawn-windmill screensaver is a single executable and is available as a free download. Tired of the mundane look of your desktop? This screensaver will change your workstation's looks and bring it to life. Just click on the desktop and tap "start", and you'll find yourself standing on the spaceship earth. The planets and the sun are accompanied by a magnificent glowing object. It is an artist's creation, full of life and just as marvellous as any other painting. You may zoom in and out or flip the Earth around. And it's all controlled by the mouse. The planet is a chaotic and dynamic world that drifts like a moving cloud. The ship is a beacon of hope and warmth. At the same time it is an arena where the players engage in bloody, long, and hard battles. You may control the speed of the spaceship, view weapon slots and power-ups, and even change the star field. Accelerate your PC using a vacuum cleaner! You may install the Installer to get a trial version of Accelerate-PC. Notes: 1. It is an English screensaver only. 2. Accelerate-PC is a trial version.
