What's New in the TilePic 'getpic' Stitcher?

TilePic 'getpic' Stitcher is a small, easy to use application that can help you build a JPEG from a TilePic file containing JPEG tiles, that is only accessible through the (web based) 'getpic' script. The application works using either a graphic user interface or command line arguments, simplifying your job as much as possible. The tiles can be either local or online files, such as JPEG tiles from a TilePic file, accessible through the (web based) 'getpic' script. TilePic 'getpic' Stitcher Requirements: TilePic 'getpic' Stitcher Suggestions: Use Browsers: There are several browsers that can be used to access TilePic and Stitcher. Below are lists of the available browsers. These features are the ones that I use most of the time. In the 'Web Service' tab, click on the 'use JavaScript' button and a dialog will open. Check the boxes and save. Then click on 'view changes', refresh the page and you will now be able to see the changes you have made. There is a special case when you use a graphics editor for creating your TilePics. It is recommended to use a free graphics editor such as: Freehand Graphics Maker 2.2 (Freeware) from Freehand Software. It is important to note that the picture above is for guidance only. The picture above is for guidance only. TilePic's "Tiles" tab is where you will see the list of images that can be used. These "Tiles" are not necessarily standard tiles. In this tab, click on the "Add Tile" button (see picture above). This will open the 'Add Tile' dialog. This dialog lets you choose the Tile type. Use the dropdown menu to select the tile you would like to use. The tile type can be either a "Custom Tile" (this is a non-standard Tile and will be used when you add a new Tile), or a "Standard" Tile (standard tiles used for standard applications). There is a
