I am using slickgrid in my application and I am not able to get column properties to update row visibility based on value of a key. I am trying to use column.setVisible to update rows for a particular column but it does not seem to recognize the updated value of the key. columns.setVisible(function (column, row, data, colDef) { console.log('DataItem'+ data.substr(0, row.key.length) +'is'+ data.substr(row.key.length)); var item = data.substr(row.key.length); return row.key === item && item === 'Processed'? true : false; }); The above code does not seem to update any rows that are populated with values 'processed' and 'Processed'. I am using the JSON column in the column definition. I am using SlickGrid v2.1.0.0 for asp.net A: I figured it out. The column definition definition is not in a different scope. It has to be in a function. function setVisibleColumn() { columns.setVisible
