(Existing contacts) I'm trying to create a google-contacts application using nodejs and socket.io. I would like to make this possible because google contact api is too slow. I've created a google-project, and uploaded a json file to the contactgroups in the contacts API. var Contact = require('../models/contacts.js'); var socket = io.connect(); socket.on('newContact', function(data) { Contact.create(data, function(err, contact) { if (err) { console.log(err); } }); }); If I'm trying to create new contacts as json, it always returns 'Contact.create not defined'. If I'm trying to use existing contacts, it's always create the id, but not the data! So I'm trying to make this by creating a compound automatically, like this (based on [username].[date of creation])
