The application can be as a game, a simulator or whatever. I want to add an object to the application, but I want the user to see it as it appears in the application. Is there a way to add an object and test it? A: Can you just add an object and test that? Here is an example for a simple TestObject public class TestObject { private int id; public TestObject(int id) { this.id = id; } public int getId() { return id; } public void setId(int id) { this.id = id; } } Here is an example of how to add an object to the test app to be "Added". /* create test app using the following command * net
