Macros are small programs that can automate repetitive tasks, such as moving files and folders, launching programs, etc. For example, you can create macros that can be triggered by pressing key combinations or even by using hot keys. While shortcuts make working with computers much faster, they require you to spend a considerable amount of time and effort in order to memorize them. There are numerous ways to create shortcuts, but a simple method is through the creation of key macros. Key macros allow you to assign a keyboard shortcut to macros. There are a few types of key macros, namely key macros, hotkeys, smart keys, and combo keys. Key macros consist of two elements: macros, and the keyboard. For example, it is possible to create macros that can open particular folders or files. Macros can also be combined to form a complex set of operations. A great advantage of using macros is that you can create them without having to install additional software. You simply need to open Key Macro Wizard and type a short description of the macro, then you can assign the desired keyboard shortcut to it. Key Macro Wizard will allow you to create macros by highlighting all of the text you want to be included in the macro. The macros that are available by default can be used with any application. If a customer is interested in a free version, they are usually offered a trial version. This version is limited and has a small period during which the customer can use the application for free. A free trial version can be used for testing purposes or to check the application before buying. Keyboard and key macros are different, yet closely related entities. Macros are programs that can be activated by a keyboard shortcut or hotkey. When creating a macro, you will first need to define a shortcut.
