London has been battered by 50mph winds that have felled trees and caused travel chaos. Powerful gusts swept across the capital as the Met Office issued a yellow "be aware" weather alert for most of the country. Twitter has snubbed David Cameron after the Prime Minister described Jeremy Corbyn's latest Twitter election strategy as "disgraceful". The initiative, set up by Mr Corbyn last night, involves political figures and activists tweeting and retweeting information and videos to their followers on the micro-blogging site. An official Conservative Twitter account has since been created, with messages that linked to Mr Cameron's official 2012 Tory battle bus but did not mention the Labour Leader's Labour battle bus. But the use of Twitter by both sides in this general election campaign is seemingly defined by mutual dislike. Mr Cameron was angered by an earlier Twitter campaign by Mr Corbyn which encourages members of the public to post updates on whether they are voting Labour.
