Jul 28, 2019FLINT, MI -- An overwhelming number of Flint residents have finally received emergency water filters to restore their contaminated drinking water. The city confirmed to the Genesee County Health Department on Wednesday, May 31, that 6,851 filters have been sent to residents of the city. City officials said the filters have been sent out by the state, after receiving a request from the federal government to help residents who are still being served the filtered water. "We are pleased to have reached this significant milestone. The thousands of additional filters being provided to residents will provide another layer of protection from another contaminant in the water," Mayor Karen Weaver said in a statement. "These filters will give residents a significant advantage over residents in the rest of the city." The city has been under a federal mandate to provide residents with safe drinking water for more than 100 days. Since the city switched to the Flint River as a water source in April 2014, tests have shown that the water is now contaminated with harmful levels of lead. "Not
