This week is all about THE PREQUEL! We are playing the game, "Cathedral 3-D." Before you watch our gameplay please keep in mind that this is NOT the sequel to the original "Cathedral" released 2012, this is a new game called "Cathedral 3-D." It was released by Fishlabs in 2016, so it's quite old. Anyways, hope you guys enjoy the gameplay. And if you did enjoy the gameplay please share the channel with your friends to the depths of the online universe. If you're new to Gameplay of video games then this playthrough is definitely for you. We discuss the evolution of games - gameplay, story, characters, and all of that fun stuff that you need after a long day of work. We'll also be diving into sections of specific genres like RPGs, Action/Adventure, Fighting, Horror, Sports, Strategy, and so much more. ... published: 06 May 2017 2nd Edition Cataclysm: The Botros & Karathress Campaign This week we are taking a look at some of the background information behind the campaigns in the 2nd edition of the cataclysm world expansion. We'll look at the changes in the setting, and how the characters react to the world, but we will also delve into the change of theme for the cataclysm setting. This will include how the gods have divided the land, and what that means for players and characters as they play in the lands. published: 21 Sep 2015 Why Games Suck - Cataclysm and Beyond! It's a regular Friday show, as the boys and Rob continue the epic quest to destroy Azeroth.

Expect things to keep getting big as the game goes on. This episode covers the Cataclysm 2nd edition expansion, while touching on issues such as DoTA, Diablo 3 and Skyrim. There's some talk about the state of the business model of game production at the moment and the future of gaming.

If you had to ask what the future of game design would be, my gut feeling says that the big franchises will go more towards motion capture in the future, especially in light of their issues producing things that feel organic. There seems to be a lot of movement towards this style of production. Whether that's because the players are demanding it or not is a whole 'nother question

What's new:

Stortion Strike Jetpack belongs to the sub-genre "Multi-part Vehicles". In other words, the propulsion system comes in several distinct, independent pieces that can be easily attached and detached. Hover board designs vary wildly, ranging in shape, size, power, efficiency and maintenance requirements.

Fort Brown Fort Brown, also known as Camp San Antonio, is a former U.S. Army outpost established on the Lavaca River in what is now Val Verde County, Texas, in 1858.

The Mission Barrios were built in two parts. The first was a stockade containing a main building and a chapel, the second was a wall to protect the rest of the mission site with a garden on the outside the stockade. The mission is also considered the oldest in Texas. It is located within the -long Fort Brown State Historic Site, which is owned and operated by the state of Texas. The mission underwent over ten years of restoration by the Texas Historical Commission and more recent restoration was completed by Cargill Triton Construction. History The mission was founded as a Spanish military fort in the Llanura del Valle region, just east of the sisal plants and cotton industry that grew in San Antonio de Béxar, in the early 18th century. Much of the population of the region was Guachichiles, nomadic hunter-gatherers of the Chihuahuan Desert. The Spanish arrived from Mexico during the 1500s, initially fleeing a wave of Moctezuma rebelling indigenous peoples. During that time, they built several forts in the region (such as the San Antonio de Valero) and Spanish influence grew rapidly over the region. San Antonio de Béxar, which had lost its mission status during the Conquest of New Mexico in the early 18th century and was recaptured by the Spanish in the Battle of Béxar in early 1836, lacked the military capabilities to repel the northern Mexicans, and retreated down the Rio Grande on 1836. This weakened

Spain's hold over the area, and nomadic hunter-gatherers decided to move to other regions, such as the Ogallala Plains. Spanish land grants in the 1820s allowed many immigrants from Nicaragua, Mexico, and Spain to move into the area. The region became a hideaway for outlaws. By the mid-1850s, the region was controlled by supporters of the United States' impending war with Mexico. Silver

I don't recommend playing this before dinner. "Yes, you have played man's best friend. It can be a fun role-playing game for very young children." Cat in 14a is an interactive fiction game with a non-linear branching narrative that responds to your choices. In the video game version of the story you play as a cat (or in one of four player roles) exploring different apartments in a mansion in the mid 50's. You need to find 8 of your kittens and get them back to the mansion. All the puzzles you'll need to solve are provided right there in the rooms. You do so by following clues left around the mansion and choosing options based on what you find. The game is designed for children ages 6 and up. With 5 or more cats you can play the game for an adult audience as well. Cat in 14a, the title of the game, is the year of the first cat in your time. Gameplay Cat in 14a is a puzzle adventure game with a narrative driven theme that features a branching narrative and characters that respond to your choices. There are 12 rooms in the game, including the player's apartment, the mansion, the shop, the lounge, and five different apartments. Plot You start out as a cat in a old school classroom. The school year has begun and your students are looking forward to a new school year. The next morning your school class is dismissed and the other students head out for their home lives. You, however, have other plans. You sprint to the street where your target is waiting for you. After you return home you return to the classroom and turn the lights on. You have missed the end of school, but you plan to wait around until the other students show up home. You wait and you wait and you wait until everyone has left the school. You know your target is not coming back, but you had planned to talk to him anyway. You are not a dog. Shortly after the school has been empty for a while, a man in a suit enters the classroom. After talking a bit, he tells you that he has a job for you. He places a label on the back of the door, telling you to come to the lounge in 2 weeks, after school has finished. In the lounge, you enter a bar and ask the bartender if she remembers the kid that came in here with a cat. The bartender
