Pazāgi has just released a free, fun, one of a kind, indie game called Linger. It is the most beautiful game ever, and is the reason why I have picked up a

Mac in the past few months. The game is about a cat that slips into a man's unconscious dream. It is a 3-D game, using a simple touch based interface. The player is given control of the cat's movements. You move him with your finger. There is no health bar, and no enemy to fight. The game is simple, but very difficult to play. There are only 3 buttons, and those buttons can be very easily confused. Let's play a short clip of the first level of the game, and you can see what I mean. Let me just say, if you have an iPhone or Android device, you can buy the game now on iTunes and Google Play. You will also have the option to play the game on your Mac using the Unity 3D game engine. There are some technical difficulties, especially when you want to play a level offline. But, when you play the game on your iPhone or Android device, you will get 30 extra levels. You will be able to connect to your Mac and play them on your computer if you have an Internet connection. Also, the console version of Linger will be on PS3, Xbox 360, Wii, and PC. If you want to play the game on your Mac, you will need to wait for updates from the Unity 3D Game Engine. It will take some time for the engine to be updated, but Pazāgi is working hard to make sure the game is as good as it can be. After you press the start button, you will be put in a room that looks a bit like a dentist office. But, you aren't going to get a shot. The first thing you see is an alien. It looks like a white circle with a face. It will move across the floor, and you can steer it with your finger. You have to grab it with your finger and press to kill it. Once you kill an alien, you have to move your finger across the room and launch yourself

CASE REPORT ====== Ahealthy, 35-year-old male presented to the Emergency Department with a chief complaint of sudden-onset left ankle pain after a slip and fall. Following evaluation, he was diagnosed with a sprained left ankle and an ankle arthroscopy was performed with removal of a loose fragment on the posterior talar dome (Figure 1{reftype="fig"}). The patient received postoperative orders for a trial of motion and was instructed to elevate his foot during sitting or lying. However, the following day, the patient returned to the Emergency Department with worsening left ankle pain, swelling, redness, and warmth. He denied pain at rest, trauma, or trauma to
