The hearing panel found that plaintiff failed to prove his attorney's fees and costs fell within the limitation set by section 473.5, subdivision (b)(1). The parties offered no additional evidence or argument on the issue. The hearing panel's decision may be set aside only if it is unsupported by substantial evidence. (§ 5950.) We determine de novo whether the hearing panel properly applied the law. (Penziner v. West American Insurance Co. (1937) 10 Cal.2d 160, 176 [73 P.2d 1].) We have determined the board's interpretation of section 473.5, subdivision (b)(1) is correct, based on the legislative history of the statute. However, we conclude that the board's decision that plaintiff failed to prove attorney's fees and costs exceeded the minimum limitation is unsupported by substantial evidence. *66 The hearing panel held that plaintiff failed to prove "the actual amount of the attorney fees and costs" (11 Cal.Code Regs., § 1810-941.1, subd. (b)). It stated that plaintiff did not introduce itemized records into evidence but instead, based on his attorney's testimony, "[i]t appears the attorney fees may have been based in part on hourly rates of from $150 to $175." Defendant does not dispute that plaintiff's attorney's fees were incurred between October 1992 and July 1993. The hearing panel could rely on the attorney's testimony to conclude that the amount of his fees "may" have exceeded $1,500. However, the hearing panel did not explain how it could conclude this was true in light of the evidence plaintiff presented the attorney's invoices which indicated the amount of his hourly rate and the total amount of fees incurred between October 1992 and July 1993. Based on the record, the hearing panel found only "it appears" that the fees incurred by plaintiff's attorney exceeded $1,500. In determining whether the attorney's fees and costs were "clearly excessive" the hearing panel apparently found that it was appropriate to consider the attorney's hourly rate. However, the limited evidence on this subject was ambiguous. The hearing panel found that, "It appears that Plaintiff's counsel was an experienced attorney and handled a considerable amount of litigation in this county." The hearing panel also found that plaintiff's attorney "testified as to his experience." However, the evidence in the record suggests that plaintiff's attorney had the opportunity to practice before

What's New In?

Nearly four years ago, construction began on a $100 million dollar sporting and entertainment venue known as Hard Rock Stadium. Opened just last September, the stadium shares a block in the shadow of the Citrus Bowl with the Dolphin's building. Despite the disappointment of going down in the worst-ever bowl game, Miami fans on Tuesday were able to see a lot of their city from the top-level seats as the stadium's grand opening celebration got underway. The annual Sunshine Showdown between Florida State and Miami was in full swing with more than 47,000 fans in attendance. And the fans were singing some of the school's latest hits as well. A marching band took to the field and played a national anthem in unison before the stadium lights went out and a video of the city's growth over the past decade was projected on the field. Replay Florida was also on hand as part of its campaign to get people to sign up for a driver's license, its first since 2012. Indeed, the stadium stands on a site that once saw a lot of competition between the Miami Hurricanes and Florida State Seminoles. The two athletic teams were rivals in the old Orange Bowl stadium. Now, the two programs are playing for the same customer base, paying attention to the same hot commodities from the same sources. Chris Fowler spoke to one of those commodities, rapper Iggy Azalea, at the beginning of the game. She mentioned that her mother wore a Miami t-shirt to her birthday party. Of course, she'd want her daughter to be in the band for the new stadium opener. "It's crazy," she said. "First time I've been back in South Florida in a while. I lived down here last year. I wanted to come back and do a Miami tribute song." Of course, her hit song "Fancy," released in February, is a Miami-themed tune. But that's not all. The stadium will welcome the Miami Heat into the building next year. And next year's Super Bowl winner will play for the Miami Dolphins in the new stadium. Still, it will take a long time before the city of Miami sees a return on its nearly $1 billion investment in the stadium.
