You start the game as a new recruit being sent to capture the Oldest City in the world, Yada. You explore the city while fighting people who are trying to prevent you from capturing the stone. Yada is different from other heroes of legend. It has no memory and never knew how to fight or to use magic. Instead, Yada uses powerful Blasting Powes that fly to anyone who is trying to attack him. Yada is 100% unique and cannot be seen in other games. Its own combat style and gameplay is completely different. You are a Swordsman in the middle of a battle between the King and his two sons... Manslaughter, you are a master of swords, weapons, bow and bow. By the time you've finished your training as a Swordsman, the city has become divided into two: those in favor of the King and those against. This division has fueled the war that everyone is fighting. While you're sent to train, your memories from your youth are resurrected. What, for example, occurred between you and a barmaid during the training academy? And what have you been ordered to do? If your memories turn out to be genuine... The story goes on! This game was made from 0 to 100 in less than 30 days SteamWorld Dig has been in a Steam sale for the past few months. They've been gradually lowering the price from $9.99 to $5.99, and now, just above $4.00, if you buy the game on December 29th, you will receive 1000 coins for free which can be applied to your other Steam games. If you're curious about the game, you can check out the demo, which has the same gameplay as the full game, but doesn't include the message boards, chat rooms, and in-game, advertising. Also, SteamWorld Dig has been featured on the App Store's Free App of the Week. However, the game hasn't had any press coverage in Apple's App Store, so if you have an iPhone, you could go to the App Store, search for SteamWorld Dig, and see if the game is featured. Bard To The Future Activation For Windows

This is a custom alternative-chic RPG based on the RPGs concept of wandering from town to town, building your character and making it stronger as you go along. Playing out in a small space, you will be able to personalise your character's house, starting with the roof, with various accents, furniture and accessories. These can be upgraded through the crafting system or acquired through your friends, which makes the game a bit like Harvest Moon, but on a smaller scale. Digital Media MagazineThe Witcher 3: Wild Hunt hands-on Whether you're hardcore or just starting out with RPGs, you can no longer ignore The Witcher. The Witcher 3: Wild Hunt is a massive, beautiful, robust game that keeps many of the greatest traditions of the genre alive while coming up with new twists on old ideas. The Witcher 3: Wild Hunt is a return to form for CD Projekt RED - a AAA open-world fantasy RPG with RPG mechanics that makes The Witcher 3: Wild Hunt stand out from the crowd. Not only are you looking for a significant improvement from the second instalment in the series, you're looking for something even more exciting than the original. Wild Hunt really delivers on this front, and you should expect nothing less. ReverieAddict Viewer Fights "Did You Know... Viewers?" Survey I did a brief little survey earlier this month to see if people knew what Viewers were and what they looked like. If you guys were interested, it was super easy and would take maybe 2-3 minutes to fill out. Thanks for all your help guys, and if you feel like filling out, it would be greatly appreciated.(x, p) This past summer, I picked up a new hobby. I was interested in woodworking, but my first project didn't turn out the way I wanted. I figured I'd buy a cheap router, make a few useful designs, and then move on. After months of working on it, I decided to give up. Then, about a month later, my family bought a second hand all-in-one kitchen for the kitchen island. This was a significant step toward completing the project. I had been imagining the kitchen island as a base for multiple small projects that I wanted to build. Unfortunately, all of my designs were all-in-one items, but that's where the new router came in handy. After moving the junk kitchen into the basement, I

What's new in Bard To The Future:

The Bard to the Future Award, also known as the Bard to the Future or the Bard Award for Public Spokespeople to the Future, is an annual award given by the American Bard Society (ABS) to "an individual who has effectively communicated a traditional message by incorporating the language of the culture, delivering a message that embodies a 21st-century cultural experience, and who exemplifies excellence in personal and professional achievement". History 2009 The Bard to the Future Award began in 2009 with the inaugural prize given to Director Paul Lang of the New York Public Library (NYPL) to acknowledge his achievements in the field of higher education. Lang was selected by ABS's board of directors which recognized, among other things, the importance of Paul Lang's work in transforming the NYPL by incorporating socially conscious public service into its services. 2010 2010 was the first year that the award was opened to the world at large. The ABS held a press conference in December 2009 to announce a $50,000 grant to PAJA/CURIS (US) to empower secondary public school students in the United States through its original and innovative program PBJ - Public Propaganda By Jest. The award, its selection committee and the recipient were described in an article published by L.A. Times. The LA Times listed recent winners of the award, and noted its inaugural winner, Paul Lang. 2011 2011 saw 45 applications, including nominees from Argentina, Australia, Hungary, Iceland, Korea, India, Japan, Russia, Singapore and the United Kingdom. The finalists were also honored at an event at Penn in New York City on May 8, 2011. The award was presented to Dr. Alexandra David-Neel, a French anthropologist, author, and explorer, for communicating the value of untraditional lifestyles and for spreading awareness about the dangers of tobacco. David-Neel received her award in September 2011 in Addis Ababa, Ethiopia by UN General Secretary Ban Ki-moon and UN Deputy Secretary-General Jan Eliasson, and she addressed the General Assembly. In her speech, she stated "we have to question certain self-established beliefs that it is difficult to adapt to the rapid changes of modern society without ultimately sinking to the depths of adversity". The 2011 judges included actor Vincent D'Onofrio, author and journalist Nora Roberts, anthropologist Chris Knight and adjunct professor at Johns Hopkins University Susan Kent. 2012 2012 was the second year that only 15
