In this guide, we'll help you make your photographs look great using Photoshop. Edit Images with Photoshop Photoshop is a much more robust editing program than you might expect. Because of its flexible nature, anything you learn about editing in Photoshop can be applied to a wide variety of image formats, including RAW, RGB, CMYK, and TIFF. The most essential tools to use with Photoshop are as follows: Adjustment Layers These enable you to add and subtract different layers over a single photograph. They have been used for years to create images with filters and effects that are difficult or impossible to achieve in other ways. However, most adjustment layers also work together very well with the the layers beneath them, which can be applied to multiple photographs. This means that a single layer can be used over a series of photographs to produce a perfectly consistent look. The Adjustment Layers window offers three tabs: Effects, Components, and Masking (see below). This is the easiest way to use adjustment layers. Just click the tab to go to that window, then click the Select button next to the layer you want to edit. To edit the layer, choose an adjustment by clicking the color swatches in the Options bar. The Basic Adjustment Brush The Basic Adjustment Brush adds a layer effect to the photograph. It can be used on any Adjustment Layer, and the Adjustment Brush can be used to add or subtract various adjustments and shapes. To use the Basic Adjustment Brush, select a tool (such as a color, gradient, or brush) in the Toolbox, then click on the New Adjustment Layer icon at the top of the layer window. A palette appears with color swatches that can be clicked to make changes in the Adjustment Layer. Note that the Basic Adjustment Brush can also be used to make subtractive adjustments to the photograph. Photoshop has a couple of different brush styles that can be used to make adjustments. The Color Range Brush The Color Range Brush is used to change the color of an image's pixels in a specific range. For example, this brush can be used to turn gray skies blue. The end result will be that only the pixels of the sky that are in that specific range of gray will be affected. To use the Brush, select a Brush from the Toolbox and then click on the New Adjustment Layer icon

[Changes in the bioelectrical activity of the large intestine during antibiotic therapy in patients with cholera]. The bioelectrical activity of the colon was recorded in 36 patients aged from 4 to 80 years suffering from cholera on days 1, 4, 7, 10, and 14 of the course of the disease. The patients were divided into 3 groups according to the antibiotic treatment received: group 1--narcotic preparations of the aminobenzoyl-derivative type, group 2--carbenicillin, group 3--penicillin. Changes in the resting and evoked potentials found in the colon are discussed. As the result of the examination it is concluded that the use of the antibiotic preparations of group 1 and 2 is more advisable than the use of the preparations of group 3 in the treatment of the cholera. 6 8 . Q: How to find  $\frac{\partial}{\partial x}y + \frac{\partial}{\partial y}z$ ? Given a vector function  $f(x,y,z)=(x,y,-2x-y)$  I have to find  $\frac{\partial}{\partial x}y + \frac{\partial}{\partial y}z$  How do I start? I see that  $y$  and  $z$  are coordinates and so  $f(x,y,z)=(x,y,-2x-y)$  is a set of equations. How do I find  $\frac{\partial}{\partial x}y$  and  $\frac{\partial}{\partial x}z$ ? A: For any function  $g$ , we define  $\frac{\partial}{\partial x}f(x,y,z) \equiv f(x,y,z) - \lim_{t \rightarrow 0} \frac{g(x+t,y,z) - g(x,y,z)}{t}$  A quick application of this definition should get you started:  $\frac{\partial}{\partial x}f(x,y,z) = (1,0,-2)$ ,  $\frac{\partial}{\partial y}f(x,y,z) = (-1,0,0)$ ,  $\frac{\partial}{\partial z}f(x,y,z) = (0,-2,0)$  The function  $f(x,y,z)$  has no  $x$  dependence. This gives us that  $\frac{\partial}{\partial x}f$  and  $\frac{\partial}{\partial y}f$  are both  $0$ . Now, a quick application of the implicit function theorem should get you  $z = 2x - y$  Can you take it from there? Q: ActionBar with DrawerLayout not working with AppCompatActivity? I'm facing a problem with the now deprecated `setActionBar()` method of AppCompatActivity. I want to use the new DrawerLayout, unfortunately you can't call `setActionBar()` this way: `@Override public void setActionBar(@Nullable ActionBar actionBar) { getSupportActionBar().setDisplayHomeAsUpEnabled(true); }` My activity extends AppCompatActivity and requires the ActionBar. Is there a solution? A: The error message is as follows: requires API level 21 (current min is 16) It means that you can only use the ActionBar in
