Here is a solution for IE that worked for me: Open the PDF in Microsoft Word and select all (Ctrl+A) and copy (Ctrl+C). Paste the PDF file into a Google Docs spreadsheet. Select the spreadsheet, and press F11 or Alt+F11 to convert to a.xls file. A: Open IE settings>advanced settings (I think that's right, it's been a while, I'm using Linux atm. Edit the settings (if possible, you need to look at the newer versions of IE) and choose to save the webpages or the current site you're on as a PDF. You'll see a dialog for the download destination, and you can paste the PDF link here. The present invention relates to a process for fabricating a semiconductor device, and more particularly, to a method for forming a shallow trench isolation region in the semiconductor device, which is integrated in a shallow trench region using an insulating material.

Substantially, the trench isolation method is widely used in the semiconductor fabrication process, since it provides simplicity, and reduction in the size of the semiconductor device. FIG. 1A is a cross-sectional view showing a conventional semiconductor device employing trench isolation technology. Referring to FIG. 1A, a substrate 10, which has a relatively high electrical conductivity, is provided. A pad oxide layer 12 is formed on the substrate 10. A nitride layer 14 is formed on the pad oxide layer 12. A trench 15 is formed in the substrate 10 using the pad oxide layer 12 and the nitride layer 14. An insulating material, which is used as an isolation material, is filled into the trench 15, to thereby form a trench isolation region. The trench isolation region is used to isolate the well regions of adjacent devices. To improve the efficiency of the fabrication process, a silicon nitride liner layer 17 is formed on the inner wall of the trench 15 prior to deposition of the insulating material, such as an oxide film, to fill the trench 15. The silicon nitride liner layer 17 provides an effective stopping-up function for the insulating material, which has to be deposited into the trench
