She looked haggard, her eyes bloodshot and her hair disheveled, and when she sat down on a bench, she put her head in her hands and appeared to cry. Ms. Brawner was there for what she hoped would be the last time in court. She was to be sentenced for two counts of animal cruelty. She had pleaded guilty to the charges in February, admitting that she had choked her cat to death. But she had more to say now, she said in a halting voice. “It was in my house. I didn’t have anywhere else to put it,” Ms. Brawner said. “It was the only place I could get to, because I was cleaning and I didn’t want to leave the cat in my car.” The squirming, spitting cat was the last member of a litter Ms. Brawner bought from a pet store on Craigslist, the last child in a litter of cats she had decided to raise like her own children.Q: Regular expression to detect directory paths I would like to use regular expression to detect if a file paths is a directory. Ex: define('ROOT_PATH', dirname(__FILE__)) require_once(ROOT_PATH. './config.php'); require_once(ROOT_PATH. './app/AppKernel.php'); should return true. But this is not working: if (preg_match('/^([a-zA-Z0-9_\|\-]+)$/', $_FILES['file_name']['name'])) I don't know what
